What We Do: PROJECT ACES

An acronym, for All Children Exercise Simultaneously, effectively, “The World’s Largest Exercise Class”. Since 1989, the first Wednesday in May, at 10:00 AM local time, has been Project ACES Day, when millions of children, parents and teachers all over the world exercise simultaneously in a symbolic gesture of fitness and unity. It underscores the need for quality Physical Education in our nation’s schools. Think the “Earth Day” of Fitness meets the Exercising “Hands Across America”.

Project ACES is a community outreach program proven to be non-competitive, educational, motivational, and fun. When we first began, we had no idea that it would reach the magnitude and success of today. The program has received praise by presidents of the United States, governors, senators, and celebrities from sports and show business.

Year after year, Project ACES reaches millions of participants around the world, including all 50 United States of America and at least 49 other countries. Praise and support have also come from dozens of organizations in and out of the fitness industry such as The President’s Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, which is a supporting partner of the non-profit Youth Fitness Coalition, Inc.

Why Do We Have PROJECT ACES?

We believe as we hope you do too, that physical fitness is preventative medicine. Recent Surgeon General reports have continually emphasized the potentially avoidable health risks associated with a sedentary lifestyle and obesity, especially in young people. In fact, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has stated that childhood obesity has reached epidemic proportions.

Exercise, physical activities, proper nutrition, active lifestyle, and adequate rest can lower the chances of developing coronary heart disease and stroke, which include risk factors such as chronically high blood pressure and poor lipid/cholesterol blood profiles.

Current research also indicates the positive role physical activity plays not only in prevention, but also treatment of diseases such as diabetes, cancer, osteoarthritis, and heart disease. Mainstream media has focused on these issues repeatedly. School systems, many of which have lost funding for regular physical education classes, have begun to look at dietary interventions in the school cafeteria, as well as after school programs as viable alternatives.

Project ACES activities supplement their efforts to combat obesity and physical inactivity by making FITNESS FUN! Project ACES may save lives by helping offset this obesity epidemic and potentially preventable tragedy. Recently, The Youth Fitness Coalition has formalized a partnership with the American College of Sports Medicine’s (ACSM) Exercise is Medicine (EIM) program. What Do the Children Do During the PROJECT ACES PARTICIPATION ASSEMBLY?

Walk, jog, dance, do aerobics, or a combination of any of the above. Each site organizes its own Participation Assembly for the 15-45 minutes the program runs.

Many sites choose to invite local politicians, celebrities and athletes to their events. The majority of schools will get their entire population outside on to a play field, put on music, and everyone has some fun by moving and exercising together. If it rains, they pump the music on the PA system, and hold activities in classrooms, or in the gym. Many invite the local media to cover the event. Proclamations from the mayor and/or governor’s office may also be read.

Why Do the PROJECT ACES Programs Work?

It’s simple. The motivation for the children is to know that there are people all over the world exercising and moving along with them.

As a Project ACES leader you decide how big or small an event to host locally. You decide the theme such as Healthy Nutrition, Active Lifestyle, Stress Management, as alternatives to alcohol, tobacco, and/or substance abuse. Or, maybe even safe sex, or anti-violence topics. Then, decide what special guest speaker to invite. Many sites have successfully invited Mayors, Governors, Doctors, Exercise Professionals, and even local sport and celebrity personalities. After the talk, it’s time for some action. It’s all geared to be fun, generate excitement, and physical activity for everyone, especially the children.

There are now PROJECT ACES CLUBS in several states that have Daily, Weekly, and/or Monthly Project ACES Participation Assembly Programs with different Health, Fitness, Nutrition, and Lifestyle Related Themes Yearlong.

States such as New Jersey, Maine, New Mexico, and Michigan have led the way with State Coordinators. In May 2009, there were nearly a half million participants in the state of Michigan alone.
